

Contents

List of Illustrations	vii
Foreword by Lennard J. Davis	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
INTRODUCTION · The Madwoman and the Blindman Julia Miele Rodas, Elizabeth J. Donaldson, and David Bolt	1
CHAPTER 1 · The Corpus of the Madwoman: Toward a Feminist Disability Studies Theory of Embodiment and Mental Illness Elizabeth J. Donaldson	11
CHAPTER 2 · The Blindman in the Classic: Feminisms, Ocularcentrism, and Jane Eyre David Bolt	32
CHAPTER 3 · “On the Spectrum”: Rereading Contact and Affect in Jane Eyre Julia Miele Rodas	51

CHAPTER 4 · From India-Rubber Back to Flesh: A Reevaluation of Male Embodiment in Jane Eyre Margaret Rose Torrell	71
CHAPTER 5 · From Custodial Care to Caring Labor: The Discourse of Who Cares in Jane Eyre D. Christopher Gabbard	91
CHAPTER 6 · “I Began to See”: Biblical Models of Disability in Jane Eyre Essaka Joshua	111
CHAPTER 7 · Illness, Disability, and Recognition in Jane Eyre Susannah B. Mintz	129
CHAPTER 8 · Visions of Rochester: Screening Desire and Disability in Jane Eyre Martha Stoddard Holmes	150
Works Cited	175
Contributors	189
Index	192